UP UNTIL RECENTLY IN ORDER TO DO SEO (Search Engine Optimization services) we had to have control or create our customers websites.*

Question—so what about the coding and description tags on my existing websites—don't I still need those?

Ans: Yes.....and what we do, is give you the coding in a paste in format for you to submit to whoever is managing your website.

Google has CHANGED the way sites get better position:

It used to be that reciprocal links was the main way to go—which of course required that we add links to a site and upload them.

1. Today, these links still count but not nearly as much. What Google really looks for now are 1 WAY LINKS.

That is Links that go back to your site from online Blogs, Press releases, Articles etc.*

For Example: The links we have going to our sites from Trulia, Zillow and Active Rain are One Way links.

To have Zillow, Trulia etc, link to us, we simply create a page inside these sites—there is no requirement that we add a link back to them.

In other words they are not reciprocal Links. A real reciprocal link works when both parties link to each other.

So how do we get One Way Links?

I have the software that accesses over 200 plus Blogs that I now add your links to.

How is this done?

Basically I create a Real Estate related blog post which includes a link back to my customer's sites (no more than 3 links per post) and then I post it.

These blogs then circulate throughout the internet—and within a few days, Google and Bing pick these links up and your site will move up accordingly.

How am I implementing this?

1. For my $100.00 a month customers I am adding 25 blogs or one way links back to your sites a month. ($200.00 customers get 50 links back a month)

2. These blog posts are spread out and added slowly, so as not to appear unnatural. (If we did for example 100 blogs then Google would take this as a new normal and expect that many links each month.

Blogs. We can do Word-press blogs without having control of a site. These are tremendously effective.

Youtube. We can create and upload your listings as Youtube Videos without having control of your site.

So Again—this is all new and greatly expands our affordable services.

If you like your website, there is no need to change—we can get you on the top pages of Google anyway with our SEO services.

our $100.00 plan is comparable to other companies charging as much as $500.00
